Acknowledgments

This project would not have been possible without the tremendous support of Regina Gong, the Open Educational Resources (OER) & Student Success Librarian at the Michigan State University Libraries. We are grateful for her dedication to the quality of education that our students deserve. The training she provided for us within the Open Pedagogy Learning Community continued to inform and guide us in the production of this volume in the most accessible format. Our sincere gratitude goes for Dr. Camelia Suleiman, associate professor at the Linguistics and Languages department at Michigan State University, who has led the Arabic Program from 2012-2020. She was very dedicated to our curriculum development efforts and led workshops and focus meetings to put us on the right track and get us started with our project. We are thankful for the Center for Language Teaching Advancement (CeLTA) whose staff facilitated our access to funding resources and online training that helped shape out the outcome of this project. We extend our thanks to the dedicated editing team, Joshua Newman and Chandlee Marcyk-Taylor, who put a great effort into the production and accessibility of the book. We are grateful to our colleagues in the Department of Linguistics and Languages at Michigan State University for recognizing the value of our project as a model for other languages. We thank Dr. Yen-Hwei Lin, the department chair, who supported the project and always encouraged us to revolutionize the curricula we offer in our programs. We are finally thankful for our students who inspired us to create this resource as their needs and interests keep pushing us to do more to meet their expectations. As is the way of all things digital, collaboration is at the heart of the project and we are thankful for the many people who helped make this possible.

Preface

In our experience teaching Arabic at Michigan State University, we have always tailored our curricula to students' needs and the intended learning outcomes set up by ACTFL guidelines. In our continual efforts to provide students with an optimal and up-to-date learning experience, we supplemented textbook material with additional handouts and worksheets that targeted different bands of proficiency. Over the years, it became evident that even with the greatest textbooks, things get obsolete or outdated in a world that is ever-changing. We also encountered considerable shortcomings in the available textbooks, particularly the lack of task-based learning opportunities and the absence of engaging activities and sufficient culture representations. As we filled in these gaps, we ended up with a wealth of resources and worksheets that kept growing over the years. It became a pressing idea that the required textbooks have become more of a financial burden to our students and it cannot be a good investment to keep them.

It was when we first joined the open pedagogy community that we realized the significance of our work, and we believed that it will be worth more if we shared our material as open educational resources. The philosophy of this book is based on interactive learning. Instead of including activities with answer keys as we see in traditional textbooks, the current work takes advantage of the interactive tools provided by H5P to enhance the students' self-study experience. It is also designed with the teacher in mind. Instructors can benefit from the sequence of the lessons to create their lesson plans and assignments throughout the semester.

This book is the entry-level Arabic. It can cater to online-only classes as well as hybrid sections. This feeds into the flipped-class approach in which students prepare and study the material at home then meet in class to practice and engage in conversations based on the material they have already completed online. This course builds literacy in Arabic along with working on fluency and vocabulary use in theme-based components.

Since the book is hosted online, improvements can be made continually. It will keep adapting as students and teachers interact with it and provide critical feedback. We hope that our project contributes to the great mission of open pedagogy to make quality education accessible to our students:

leaders of a brighter future.

Introduction

This open-source book, Elementary Arabic I, is aimed at undergraduate students who are taking Arabic in their first semester. It is the introductory part of an open-source series in Arabic. It starts from scratch and builds literacy in the language while working on speaking and conversation from day one. By the end of this course, students will have covered letters and sounds and be ready to explore the language in a structured and organized manner. Each chapter starts with letters and sounds practice, then moves on to new vocabulary and structure in a lively, interactive approach. Vocabulary and grammar sections are supplemented with audio that is transcribed in the appendix to provide accessibility.

This OER will be unique in its presentation of Arabic language content through theme-based modules. Each theme is addressed through vocabulary, grammar, reading, speaking, and writing components. Each chapter includes self-check embedded quizzes that help learners digest language concepts. The book is also designed with teachers in mind. Each chapter includes pair work and group tasks that the teacher can implement in class, as well as other parts that can be assigned as homework. The last part in each chapter includes an overview assignment that some programs can use if they implement the hybrid approach.

The main focus of the book is to establish a sound basis in Standard Arabic structure in a simplified and sequenced approach. While developing a solid foundation in written Arabic, an introduction into spoken Egyptian Arabic will be integrated to enhance students' spoken fluency and enrich their cultural experience in their language-learning journey. Most Arabic programs will be able to cover this course in half a semester, after which they can direct their students to the second level Elementary Arabic II available at the MSU Libraries' Open Textbook Publishing website.

PART I

GREETINGS AND INTRODUCTIONS

الدرس الأول : أهلا وسهلا

Learning Objectives

In this lesson, students will be able to:

- Learn and practice basic greetings in spoken Arabic.
- Identify and interpret Arabic alphabet system.

Letters and Sounds Overview

In this section:

- You will gain initial recognition of Arabic letters and sounds. This is the general overview. In later chapters, we will revisit them individually.

Arabic Letters and Sounds

Get started with letter shapes. Study the following chart to identify letter forms.

Arabic Alphabets

الحروف العربية

خ	ح	ج	ث	ت	ب	ا
khaa	Haa	jim	thaa	taa	baa	alif
ص	ش	س	ز	ر	ذ	د
Saad	Shiin	siin	zaa	raa	dhaal	daal

qaaf	faa	Ghayn	Ayn	Dhaa	Taa	Daa
ي	و	هـ	ن	م	ل	ك
yaa	waaw	haa	Nun	Mim	Laam	Kaaf

Arabic Letter Shapes in Words

In this video, you will see how letters change shape in initial, middle, and final position of words. This is an overview to get prepared for the writing training and connecting letters practice that we will conduct in the following chapters.

Video of Arabic Alphabets

Arabic Short Vowels

Short vowels (a-i-u) are represented in Arabic as diacritics above or below the letters. These marks are not necessarily written, as native speakers can read without having these short vowels. You will also be trained to implicitly recognize them. Watch this video to see how these vowels look.

One or more interactive elements has been excluded from this version of the text. You can view them online here:

<https://openbooks.lib.msu.edu/arb101/?p=5#oembed-1>

Arabic Long Vowels

Long vowels (aa- ii- uu) are represented through actual letters. The three letters you will always need to write a long vowel are:

ا as in باب /baab/

و as in توت /tuut/

ي as in تيب /tiib/

Key Takeaways

- Arabic words are formed by tying or binding letters together. To adjust to this process, letters take different shapes in initial, middle, and final positions. You cannot just put letters side-by-side, rather, letters are connected in a process like stitching.

Greeting Phrases

In this section:

- You will learn some phrases to greet and get to know your classmates.
- You will learn where Arabic is spoken.

Activity (1): Role-play. Read and listen to the sample dialogue below and then practice with your classmates.

حضرتك / حضرتك / HaDaratkum / حضرتكم

- حضرتك is used to show respect when we speak to a male who we do not know well yet.

- حضرتك is used to show respect when we speak to a female who we do not know well yet.
- These are more common in spoken Arabic rather than standard Arabic.
- These are more commonly used when there is a difference in age, prestige, or position

Activity (6): Practice the following dialogue with your classmates while filling the gaps. Record in the box below.

From this lesson, go back to Activity 3 and review the dialogue. Now record yourself reading the dialogue and personalizing it by adding names and places as needed. Read it with two different tones as if two people are speaking together. Try it with a friend or a roommate, that would be fun! Of course, you will be reading a transliteration.

PART II

MY FAMILY AND FRIENDS

الدرس الثاني : أسرتي وأصحابي

Learning Objectives

In this lesson, you will be able to:

- Learn the vocabulary and structure necessary to express information about friends and family members in Arabic.

- Continue working on literacy and writing Arabic words.

Letters and Sounds: ا to خ

In this section:

- You will practice writing the first group of the alphabet.

We will start learning letters and sounds by sorting them into five groups. Study the chart for Group 1 below.

End	Middle	Beginning	sound	pronunciation
ا	ا	ا	/a/	"a" as in father or Sam	This letter does not connect to the following letter. It works as the long vowel /a/
ب	ب	ب	/b/	"b" as in bed
ت	ت	ت	/t/	"t" as tea
ث	ث	ث	/θ/	"th" as think
ج	ج	ج	/j/	"j" as in jam
ح	ح	ح	/H/	Arabic only (constricted h)
خ	خ	خ	/KH/	Close to German (ch) as in "nacht"

Writing Training Series

There are many resources online to help you write Arabic. We select one channel here for your writing training. We will start with the first video in this section; you can watch it on YouTube.

Writing Arabic Part 1

Key Takeaways

- Short vowels are really short and are just marked with diacritics in writing.
- Long vowels are not so long. If you can clearly hear a vowel, it is more likely a long vowel that needs to be represented in writing.

Vocabulary and Grammar: Masculine and Feminine with Possessives

In this section:

- You will learn new vocabulary and be able to distinguish between masculine and feminine.
- You will learn charts on possessive pronouns and practice using them in complete sentences.

Vocabulary (I)

Listen, read, and repeat. Learn new vocabulary and notice how masculine and feminine are expressed in Arabic.

Vocabulary notes

- When you start learning vocabulary in Arabic, you become aware of the use of grammatical gender. This means that for human-related nouns, there are two counterparts from the same noun, with the feminine word having an additional ending that you will learn about soon. For example, a male student is “Taalib” and a female student is “Taaliba”. Similarly, “duktoor” and “duktoora” for a “doctor”. Many other human nouns behave in the same way. Adjectives also have the same feature. So “Kabiir” is big (masculine), and “Kabiira” is big (feminine). Adjectives must match nouns in number and gender.
- Other nouns which are not human are either intrinsically masculine or feminine. For example “a book” is masculine and “a car” is feminine.

Activity (5): With your classmates, practice asking questions about the pictures below using the following expressions. In answering the questions, use a suitable adjective as well. Record your sentences below.

Who is this? (m.)	Man-haa-tha?	من هذا؟	What is this? (m.)	Maa haa-tha	ما هذا؟
Who is this? (f.)	Man-haa-thi-hi	من هذه؟	What is this? (f.)	Maa haa-thi-hi	ما هذه؟

Notes on Grammar

- There is no indefinite article in Arabic. There is also no (am-is-are). The definite article “the” is expressed by attaching “Al” in the beginning of the noun. For example: Kitaab means “a book”, and Alkitaab means “the book”.
- Verbs in the present tense follow predictable forms that we will discuss in the grammar section.
- Some verbs take certain propositions. One of these is the verb أَذْهَبُ “AthHab” which must be followed by the proposition إِلَى “ilaa,” so أَذْهَبُ إِلَى means “go to”. Another example is أَسْكُنُ which should be followed by the proposition فِي “fee”.
- When you use two verbs side-by-side, they should be split by the infinitive “to” (ann) أَنْ . An example is a sentence like أُرِيدُ أَنْ أَشْرَبَ (urid ann ashrab) “I want to drink,” or أُحِبُّ أَنْ أَشَاهِدَ التِّلْفِيزِيُونَ (uHibb ann ushahid al telefizyon) “I like to watch TV.”
- The question word (hal) is used to initiate yes/no questions.
- If you start a sentence with a verb, you will have جُمْلَةٌ فَعْلِيَّةٌ, a verbal sentence. If you start with a noun, you will have جُمْلَةٌ اِسْمِيَّةٌ, a nominal sentence.
- Note that a phrase starting with عِنْدَ is not a verb, but rather a propositional phrase and it is considered a nominal sentence when you say عِنْدِي سَيَّارَةٌ “I have a car”. The same applies to the هُنَاكَ there is/are phrases, which count as nominal sentences too.
- The verbal sentence is negated with لَا, while the nominal sentence is negated with ليس.

Grammar

Noun-Adjective Structure

As you may have noticed during your study of Arabic so far, nouns come before adjectives and they must agree together in number and gender. Study the following examples:

سَيَّارَة كَبِيرَة Syyara kabiira	بَيْت كَبِير Bayt kabiir
مَكْتَبَة صَغِيرَة Maktaba Saghiira	مَكْتَب صَغِير Maktab Saghiir
أُسْتَاذَة جَدِيدَة ustaatha jadiida	أُسْتَاذ جَدِيد ustaath jadiid
وَرْدَة جَمِيلَة Warda jamiila	مَطْعَم جَمِيل maTCam jamiil
شَجَرَة خَضِرَاء Shajara khaDraa	شَاي أَخْضَر Shay AkhDar
طَاوِلَة صَفْرَاء Tawila Safraa	دَوَلَابْ أَصْفَر Doulaab aSfar
بِنْت لَطِيفَة Bint LaTiifa	وَلَد لَطِيف Walad LaTiif

As you can see, adjectives change according to masculine or feminine nouns. The typical ending for a feminine noun is ة - ة , but some nouns are inherently feminine with no masculine counterpart and vice versa. The case with colors is an exception, as they have certain other forms for feminine, as you see in the vocabulary table.

Task 4

Mini Presentation

You have made good progress in vocabulary and structure and have many tools to create sentences. Today, you will recap what you can say about yourself, your family, your city, place, house, or room. Review old and new vocabulary to be able to create a mini-presentation about yourself in coherent sentences covering some of the following prompts:

1. My name is _____.
2. I am from _____.
3. I live in _____.
4. I am a student at _____ and I study _____.
5. I have a brother/sister, his name/her name, or I do not have one.
6. Something about a family member.
7. Something about your best friend.
8. I have a cat/dog (if applicable).
9. I like to drink _____.

10. I like to eat _____.
11. I like to watch _____.
12. I go to _____ on the weekend.
13. I do not like _____.
14. My house is in _____ and (something that describes your house).
15. In my room _____/ there is _____, and there is _____.
16. I have a car and (something that describes your car) or I do not have a car.
17. I want _____.

Directions:

1. Plan carefully and take your time. Write down all vocabulary you think you will need for the presentation. Make use of as much vocabulary as possible adding various adjectives, verbs, and nouns when necessary.
2. Construct your sentences, varying their structure, and choose appropriate adjectives for them.
3. Draft them in your paper notebook and rehearse. Read them several times so you do not sound like you're reading when you record.
4. Create some visuals, if possible, on a PowerPoint. These can be cartoon and not necessarily something real.
5. You have the option of using the record option in PowerPoint slides using the "Insert Audio" option; this is a handy method. You may also use Zoom>Share Screen>Record. Another basic way is to use PowerPoint on your computer and record the screen with your phone while you speak and flip through the slides.
6. No fancy video is required. Go with the basics: Zoom or just a PowerPoint with embedded audio segments. Go with the easiest option. Your project file may not necessarily be video, it can be only a PowerPoint with inserted audio.
7. Duration of speaking around 2 minutes is good.
8. You may share a YouTube link, a link from Google Drive, or any other possible sharing method.

Grammar (I)

Sun and Moon Letters

The use of ال in Arabic determines definite nouns. In Arabic, the consonants are divided into two groups: the Sun-letters (حروف شمسية) and Moon-letters (حروف قمرية). This classification is based on whether or not they assimilate the definite article ال. When the definite article is assimilated into the Sun-letters it loses its distinctive sound. As a result, the sound at the beginning of the word is doubled. (Given Shaddah).

There are 28 consonants in the Arabic alphabet. Exactly half are Sun and half are Moon. Can you feel where your tongue is when you say al? It's at your teeth. Notice how your mouth changes when you make the sh sound? al ال and sh ش are very close to each other: they're both produced right at the front of your mouth. The Sun-letters assimilate the 'Lam' because it makes pronunciation easier. So the Arabs make use of Idgham (ادغام) to make the speech light. Now say القمر (Al Qamar). As far as your tongue is concerned, the al' ال is nowhere near the qaf ق sound. The Moon-letters, therefore, keep the 'L' ل sound. It is pronounced with the alif ا and then the Lam ل for the Moon letter.

The 14 Sun-letters are: (ن, ل, ظ, ط, ض, ص, ش, س, ز, ر, ذ, د, ث, ت).

Here are some examples of words that begin with sun letters:

(الرَّحْمَن) The Merciful: a name of Allah.

(الضَّحَى) the morning brightness.

(التَّاج) the crown.

(التَّلَج) the ice.

(الدَّب) the bear.

(الرَّجُل) the man.

(الزَّمَن) the time.

The 14 Moon-letters are: (ه, ي, و, م, ك, ق, ف, غ, ع, خ, ح, ج, ب, أ).

Examples of words that begin with moon letters are:

(الأَرْض) the earth.

(الْخَلْق) the creation.

(الْقِيَامَةُ) the Day of Judgment.

(الْكِتَاب) the book.

(اليَوْم) the day.

(الْبَحْر) the sea.

(الْفِيل) the elephant.

Summary

- Definite nouns in Arabic begin with ال al
- The way the definite article is pronounced in Arabic is determined by the letter after it.
- If the letter after the definite article is a Sun letter, the letter is merged/assimilated into the definite article.
- If the letter after the definite article is a Moon-letter, the Lam ل of the definite article is pronounced.
- These names come from the fact that the word for the Sun, Al Shams, is pronounced "Ash Shams," assimilating the Lam. While the word for the moon, Al Qamar, does not.

To practice, read the names of Arab countries and determine which include Shams or Moon letters.

2- as-Suudaan السودان	12. liibyaa ليبيا
3- as-Sa'udiyya السعودية	13. qaTar قطر

Grammar (2)

Definiteness and Sentence Structure

Study the following boxes and note the differences.

(1)	رجل طويل	الرجل الطويل	الرجل طويل
(2)	بنت جميلة	البنت الجميلة	البنت جميلة
(3)	قصة قصيرة	القصة القصيرة	القصة قصيرة
(4)	كرسي صغير	الكرسي الصغير	الكرسي صغير

The simplest form of the Arabic sentence includes a definite noun and an indefinite adjective. If the noun and adjective agree in definiteness/indefiniteness, you get a phrase, not a sentence.

Activity (12): Practice different ways to change these phrases into sentences.

.....	شاي أخضر	(1)
.....	شجرة كبيرة	(2)
.....	قطعة لطيفة	(3)
.....	ولد صغير	(4)
.....	هذا الكتاب	(5)
.....	هذه البنت	(6)
.....	سيارة واسعة	(7)

Activity (13): Match sentences to their translations. Pay attention to the use of definiteness.

Typing in Arabic

Now we will explore how to do our first typing in Arabic. You can type on PC, Mac, or smartphone. There are also online keyboards that pop up on the screen for you to use. There are also keyboard stickers you can buy for your keyboard. Try adding the Arabic keyboard to your smartphone to discover the fun of it. Do a web search about how to add the Arabic keyboard on your device.

Your Task

Remember the sentences you made for your mini-presentation last week. This time, try to type them in Arabic script. Below are some of the prompts from last week.

1. My name _____.
2. I am from _____.
3. I live in _____.
4. I am a student at _____.
5. I have a brother/sister, his name/her name, or I do not have one.
6. I have a cat/dog or I don't have.
7. I have a car or I don't have.
8. I like/I do not like _____.

Please do not use online translators and copy/paste. Typos are fine because it is only for practice. The point of the assignment is to look at how the letters get connected together automatically. Explore the Arabic keyboard and submit your typing to your teacher.
